Empowering Adolescents: Health and Wellness Camp for Teenage Girls

Navsarjan organized specialized adolescent camps for 183 teenage girls from Indiranagar, Hadpatiwās, Mofatnagar, Udhna-6, Swami Vivekananda, Siddharthnagar and Gautamnagar, focusing on empowering them through education on essential topics such as menstruation, physical and mental health, education, and marriage. The camps emphasized the importance of nutrition, hygiene, and exercise for overall well-being. Participants engaged in discussions about menstruation—its nature, process, and significance—as well as the importance of maintaining both physical and mental health. They also explored the value of education and career planning, responsible decision-making, and practical tips for leading fulfilling lives. To enhance understanding, information was supplemented with visual aids such as posters. The girls showed great enthusiasm for the knowledge they gained, much of which was new to them. Mothers expressed their gratitude, noting the valuable insights their daughters acquired and encouraged the continuation of such camps in the future.

Kidney Disease Awareness Camp

Navsarjan organized a kidney disease awareness camp to educate the community about kidney health, which took place in Rasulabad, Khattrinagar and Hayatnagar. A total of 109 participants, both women and men, attended the camp, where they learned about kidney diseases, their symptoms, and preventive measures. The primary goal was to raise awareness and teach attendees how to identify symptoms related to kidney health. At the conclusion of the camp, participants received free blood sugar and blood pressure tests. This initiative significantly increased awareness of kidney diseases among attendees, many of whom opted for the health screenings. During the tests, 3 individuals were found to have high blood pressure, while 3 women exhibited elevated blood sugar levels. They were advised to consult a doctor for appropriate treatment and management.
